The screenshot shows the WDCGG (World Data Centre for Greenhouse Gases) website. The header includes the WDCGG logo, navigation links (Home, About Registration, Policy, Link, FAQ, Sitemap), and login buttons for 'User' and 'Contributor'. A blue banner reads 'Read before registering'. The main content area has a section titled 'Why register?' followed by three paragraphs explaining the need for registration. Below this is a section titled 'Steps for registration' with a list of four steps. A link to 'the WDCGG User registration_procedures' is provided. At the bottom, a blue button labeled 'Get started' is circled in red, with a red arrow pointing to it from the word 'Click'. Below the button are links for 'Not ready yet?' and 'Have a question?'. The footer shows '© 2018 WMO WDCGG'.

Read before registering

Be sure to read the information below before registering.

Why register?

This website requires user registration to help WDCGG respond to contributors' requests. Information on users' data downloads is recorded.

Many contributors face difficulties with ongoing monitoring due to economic and other limitations. Information on the timing and usage of data provided may help to validate the effectiveness of such work.

WDCGG also needs to maintain awareness regarding data collected and improve its service to users and contributors. Fair use of such data is also enhanced via the requirement for user registration.

Provision of information on user names/organizations and email addresses facilitates communication and collaboration with contributors, who reserve the right to know who is using the data they provide. User information will not be distributed or used for other purposes.

Steps for registration

- Step1: Fill out the registration form.
- Step2: Submit the form.
- Step3: Look out for an email containing an activation code.
- Step4: Access the URL with the activation code to complete registration.

Please also refer to the WDCGG User registration_procedures on the manual page.

Users will be accredited once registration is complete.
